Emergency Management Professionals and Partners,

I'd like to personally take a moment to welcome everyone to 2025. As we look forward to what another year brings for us and for North Carolina, please take a moment to make plans to attend the NC Emergency Management Association's Spring 2025 Conference. I want to invite each of you to join us in western North Carolina at Cherokee the week of March 23rd through the 26th.

Our conferences provide us with the opportunity to meet in person, network, and share our experiences and ideas with every person engaged in the emergency management profession. It was unfortunate that we had to cancel the fall conference in 2024, but the silver lining is that it has afforded us the opportunity to provide a full schedule and wide slate of speakers for the Spring event, with several of the planned sessions directly relating to the events of Hurricane Helene. We welcome emergency management practitioners from the higher education and healthcare sectors, from privately owned businesses and/or corporations, from non-profit entities, and from every level of government.

As our chosen profession continues to evolve and grow so do the challenges we face from day to day and from year to year. So again, please take this opportunity to join us in Cherokee and come ready to learn and network with your peers. I look forward to seeing each of you in March.

Sincerely,

Daniel Roten
President, NCEMA
